

Airport Parking Is at a Premium For Christmas and New Years Travel

Suffield, CT – December 20, 2004 – The Christmas Holiday is shaping up to be a record travel period and airport parking lots are going to be stretched to maximum capacity.

Of the 175 airport parking lots offered on AirportParkingReservations.com, over 35 in 22 different markets are displaying “Sold Out” some time between Christmas weekend and New Years day. The shortage of off-airport parking stretches from the Northeast to Florida and is most acute in the Northwest.

“We spent much of last week assisting customers select the best parking option given that many of the lowest priced parking lots on our site were sold out. Both Christmas and New Years fall on the weekend this year causing an even greater demand for airport parking than usual” reports Tom Lombardi, President of AirportParkingReservations.com.

A customer who used the service over Thanksgiving commented, “I usually park at this structure, but I knew it would be full on Thanksgiving Day. I was THRILLED when I discovered your website. The parking lot was, in fact, ‘full’ Thanksgiving morning, but since I had a reservation, it was no problem! Your reservation system saved me the inconvenience of driving around that morning looking for an available parking structure. Thank you SO MUCH!”

AirportParkingReservations.com has offered guaranteed airport parking for over 3 years and this year is by far the busiest. Many lots on the site offer a choice of parking options such as valet or covered as well as car care services including car wash, detail and oil change. All lots provide free shuttle service to every terminal plus luggage assistance. In the Snow Belt regions of the country, most parking lots clean the snow and ice off cars so travelers don’t return from a long trip to find their vehicles covered with snow and ice or plowed in.
